FINAL EXHIBITION OF THE 1961 SEASON

THIS FINAL exhibition of the current season is devoted to original works of art acquired by the Art Center for its permanent collection since its opening in 1960. It is composed of 135 items representing the creative efforts of 58 individual artists, a number of whom have made a lasting contribution to the art of their time.

Inasmuch as the Art Center is chartered in New York State as an educational institution for the purpose of furthering the arts, those responsible for arranging its exhibitions and choosing items for its permanent collection are most conscious of their responsibility to the public. The Center's aims regarding this matter shall always be to provide material ranging from the generally acceptable to the provocative with the hope that these shall afford meaningful experiences for all who visit its galleries.

A glance at the content of this folder reveals the range of subject matter, mediums, and idiomatic directions employed by the artists whose works are included in the present exhibition. For here there are characteristic examples of the romantic realism of Delacroix, the social commentary of Daumier, Rowlandson and Orozco, the tenderness of Renoir, the swift characterization of the incident by Lautrec, the joy in finding subjects in every quarter by Hart and Myers, the revolutionary works by Picasso, Braque, Miro and Chagall which broke away from many of the cherished art values of the past and ushered in new concepts that are the foundation for the abstract art of the present day. Also of unusual interest are the items by outstanding Japanese, Europeans and Americans who belong to the younger generation of contemporary artists.

The fundamental values represented by the items of this exhibit are an indication of the direction in which the Center will continue to proceed.
