SEPTEMBER 2 — OCTOBER 4

2 P.M. - 5:30 P.M. Daily Except Mondays

THIS LOAN EXHIBITION of works by noted contemporary artists associated with the Bertha Schaefer Gallery, New York City, should prove to be an interesting experience for many of those visiting the Center's galleries owing to the fact that it includes items in a variety of mediums available to the artist in expressing his ideas in plastic terms. Here one finds oil paintings by: Barnet, Kantor, vonWicht, Shaw, Frost, Greene, Kamys, Heron, and Girona; lithographs by Corneille, Crawford and Heron; a construction in wood and linoleum by Dix; a string composition, collages, gouaches, and an etching by Fuller; drawings by Kamys, vonWicht, Frost and Behl; an item in the acrylic medium by Raisen; each bearing the personal viewpoint of the artist who created them.

All of the items listed above, varied as they are regarding individual concept, execution and medium used, have a fundamental relationship to one or another of the main trends in the modern art movements of the present century for it was during this period that a great deal of experimenting with new materials occurred either singly or in combinations. Certain of these are primarily adaptable for works conceived in the non-objective idioms where the dominant creative factor in the mind of the artist is to project his idea in terms that are significant in their abstract relationships; the result to be accepted or rejected by the observer only from the standpoint of whether or not the creative ability of the artist was sufficient to produce a work of art in a medium and an idiomatic direction of his own choice.

As regards the items in the present exhibition one finds sufficient proof that the artists who created them were fully aware of the possibilities and limitations of the specific medium being used, thereby, creating work whose content merits the gallery visitor's serious attention.
