FOREWORD

In selecting the original items to be found in the exhibitions listed above the fundamental factor has been to include a wide range of subject matter and the mediums used by the individual artist who created them. One of the important factors to be found in each of the three exhibitions are the artists' concept of a particular subject matter. These concepts including one or another of the realistic, expressionistic or the nonobjective idioms are to be found in two of the exhibitions, these being "Original Works of Art by European and American Artists" and "Original Prints by American Artists".
